

Five things to know about the new Pandemic EBT (P-EBT) benefit for families

What is P-EBT?

- 1 P-EBT is a new federal nutrition program that provides a small grocery benefit for families to purchase food. P-EBT was first available in 2020 for families with school-aged children, and was extended in 2021 to include some families with young children as well.

How much is the P-EBT benefit?

- 2 Each eligible child receives $6.82 for each school day in which in-person learning was impacted due to the pandemic during the 2020-2021 school year. The total benefit will vary with a maximum benefit of about $34 per child, per week. P-EBT benefits will also be available for the summer of 2021 and will average $375 per child for the full summer break.

Who qualifies for P-EBT?

- 3 P-EBT is for students who qualify for free or reduced-priced school meals, including all students attending schools that offer meals at no cost with the Community Eligibility Provision (CEP). A student must also be learning in a virtual or hybrid model due to pandemic-related school closures or schedule changes. In the 2020-2021 school year, most children under the age of six in families participating in the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) are also eligible for P-EBT benefits if nearby schools are virtual or hybrid.

How do families receive P-EBT benefits?

- 4 Most eligible children receive P-EBT benefits automatically. Children in families with SNAP usually receive P-EBT benefits on their existing EBT card. In most states, students enrolled in the free and reduced-price school meal program (but not receiving SNAP) automatically receive a P-EBT card in the mail, based on the address on file with their school. However, please note that each state has a different plan for operating P-EBT and for distributing benefits.

Do families need to apply for P-EBT benefits?

- 5 While P-EBT benefits are automatically provided to most eligible children, it is important for families with school-aged children to complete a school meal benefit application for this school year (especially Kindergarten and transfer students) and to make sure the school has the correct mailing address on file.

Remember Students and children eligible for P-EBT can also still pick up grab-n-go summer meals. Text "FOOD" or "COMIDA" to 877-877 to find a grab-n-go location near you.
